Vegetable Cultivation

For the cultivation of vegetables such as tomatoes, cucumbers and sweet peppers, we have developed high-quality (bio)plastic horticultural products such as truss supports, clips, grafting clips, substrate troughs, square pots and drain gutters, which form the basis for healthy, resilient plants.

Soft Fruit Cultivation

We invent, develop and produce plastic horticultural products to help growers optimise yields and harvests of crops such as strawberries, raspberries, blackberries and currants. Horticulture products such as substrate troughs, strawberry trays, drain gutters and square substrate pots for the cultivation of soft fruits.

Ornamentals

Our ornamentals range for potted plants is characterised by quality and practicality with well thought-out design. All our ornamental pots are available in various colours on request. Matching saucers and plant hangers are available for many hanging pots. All our flower and plant pots are also highly decorative due to their design, finish, and possible engraving or pattern.

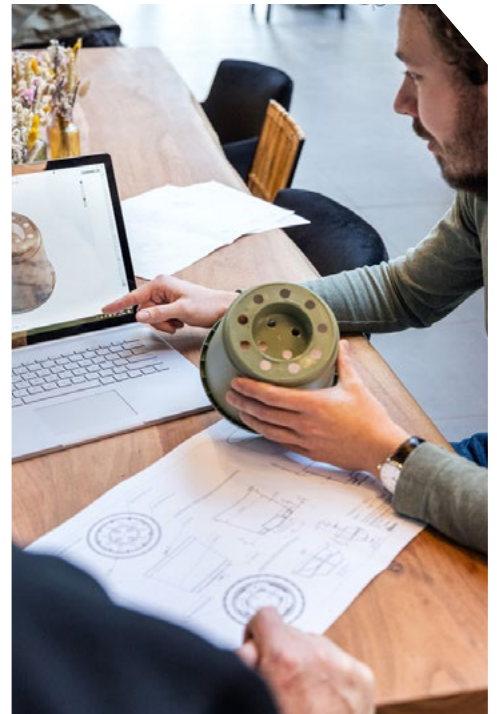

Sustainability

We contribute in multiple ways and help our growers and propagators to apply sustainability principles as cost-efficiently as possible. We believe it is our shared responsibility to secure the earth's bounty and beauty for future generation to enjoy. We offer our growers various ways to promote and boost sustainability. More than 90% percent of Bato products are made from recycled material. In turn, the products we supply can be recycled for 100% into (re)granules. This closes the resource loop. We can also supply a significant proportion of our products based on 100% bio-based and fully biodegradable material. Some of our products are even compostable under the right conditions. We offer distinctive added value as these products have been awarded official certification. At Bato, we define quality as creating the longest and most optimal functional life for our products. Our high-quality pots and trays can be used for up to 20 years!

Horticulture customization

Do you have an idea or problem, but do not have the required product yet? At Bato, we engage every day in a process of designing and developing smart, efficient and user-friendly solutions for our growers. Directly, and through various dealers, growers share their innovative ideas on how to optimise their crop performance, yields and presentation. With our level of knowledge and expertise, we can rapidly transform ideas into tangible results. From the first draft, 3D visualisations and prototyping right through to production, the entire process is handled at our injection moulding works in the Netherlands. We will be happy to take you through all the stages of our development process. You are welcome 'on board' at any time and at any stage.

About us

For more than 30 years, Bato has been adding value to the production of (bio)plastic horticulture products. We are pioneers in our field and proud of our achievements. We are committed to offering the very best quality for a fair price and with a minimum impact on the environment, backed up by outstanding service levels. Our driving passion is looking for innovative and appropriate solutions - together with growers - that are designed to maximise yields.

We are happy to help you with our (bio)plastic solutions to maximise your harvest. Please feel free to contact us. Scan the QR code, mail to bato@bato.nl or call our office +31 168331030.
